ABOUT

We believe that interior design should not only look exceptional but also enhance the way you live, work, and feel.

At Elizabeth Alexandra Interior Design, we approach each project with a strong understanding of how people use and experience space. This results in interiors that are personal, highly functional, and quietly distinctive.

ABOUT

Hi, I'm Lizzie, Director of Elizabeth Alexandra.

I'm driven by a passion for interiors that enhance everyday living. With experience across both residential and commercial projects, I bring a well-rounded and thoughtful approach to every design. My work spans private properties and specialist environments, including care settings where comfort, safety, and practicality are key.

From smaller transformations to full renovations, I enjoy guiding each project from concept through to completion. I can help reimagine your layout, refine the details, and create a space that feels purposeful, and personal.

I approach every project with creativity, care, and a clear understanding of how design can enhance the way people live and experience their surroundings.

The Garden Room

The Brief...

To create a welcoming, nature-inspired garden room lounge that brings the outside in, forming a central social space for residents. The scheme should prioritise accessibility, safety, and comfort, while sensitively retaining and enhancing selected existing architectural elements.

PROJECTS / Garden Lounge

This elderly care home lounge was designed around a garden room concept, bringing the outdoors in through natural materials, botanical patterns, and a calming nature-inspired colour palette. The space promotes wellbeing, comfort, and social interaction while creating a bright and welcoming environment for residents. Commercial-grade materials were specified throughout, including durable, easy-to-maintain finishes, slip-resistant flooring, and healthcare-compliant furniture to ensure safety, accessibility, and long-term performance within the care home setting.

PROJECTS / Garden Lounge

The design process began by creating a calm and welcoming lounge that reflected the feeling of a garden room within the care home. Furniture was arranged in small seating groups to encourage social interaction while maintaining clear circulation routes for accessibility. A soft sage green colour palette, botanical artwork, indoor planting, and mirrored features were introduced to strengthen the connection to nature and enhance natural light. Durable commercial-grade finishes and comfortable, supportive seating were specified throughout to ensure the space met the practical requirements of a care home while providing residents with a relaxing and homely environment.

Care Home Lounge Interior Design Project
in Newcastle-under-Lyme: The Hawthorns
Middle Lounge

The Brief

To reimagine an existing care home lounge as a welcoming, multi-functional social environment that prioritises comfort, safety, accessibility, and wellbeing. The scheme should enhance natural light and spatial clarity while retaining key architectural features of the existing building, including traditional timber panelling.

1

Design Concept

A garden room-inspired lounge designed to create a calming, nature-connected environment for residents.

Colour & Materials

Soft greens, warm neutrals, and durable commercial finishes were selected to promote comfort, wellbeing, and longevity.

3

Space Planning

The layout encourages social interaction while maintaining clear, accessible circulation routes for elderly residents.

Details

Colour palette

The colour scheme for the lounge was inspired by nature, using soft sage greens, warm neutrals, and muted earthy tones to create a calm and welcoming environment. The green accents reflect the garden room concept, helping to bring the outdoors in and promote a sense of wellbeing and relaxation. Balanced with warm wood finishes and light, neutral backgrounds, the palette creates a homely atmosphere while maintaining sufficient contrast to support orientation and accessibility for elderly residents.

Nursery

Residential Home, Cheshire

Nursery

This nursery was designed using soft sage green, warm wood tones, and natural textures to create a calm and timeless space for a baby boy. Affordable furniture and adaptable design choices ensure the room can evolve as he grows, while safari-inspired accessories add warmth and character.

PROJECTS / Nursery

Mood board

The nursery layout was carefully planned to maximise functionality within the compact 3.0m x 3.5m space. The cot is positioned along the west wall to create a safe sleeping zone, while the dressing and changing area is located on the east wall with additional shelving and book storage for easy access to everyday essentials. A comfortable nursing chair is placed in front of the window to take advantage of natural light, and the wardrobe is situated on the south wall to provide ample storage without disrupting circulation. The central area remains open, creating a spacious feel and allowing flexibility as the child grows.

Sections

Section A.

The cot wall was designed as a calm and comforting focal point within the nursery. Natural wood finishes, soft neutral tones, and simple framed artwork create a soothing backdrop that promotes rest and relaxation. The addition of the giraffe feature and indoor planting introduces a playful yet timeless element, adding warmth and character to the space.

SECTION A

Section B.

The dresser and bookcase wall combines practicality with style, creating an organised area for changing, storage, and display. Open shelving above the changing table provides space for decorative accessories and everyday essentials, while the bookcase encourages early learning and adds visual interest. Natural materials and soft colours ensure the wall complements the overall nursery design while remaining functional for everyday use.

SECTION B

The Study

Study

This study was designed to create a sophisticated and inviting workspace that balances functionality with comfort. Rich caramel upholstery, warm brass accents, and natural wood finishes are paired with soft neutral tones to establish a refined yet welcoming atmosphere. The feature curtains introduce pattern and visual interest, while the muted blue-green wall panelling adds depth and character to the room. Carefully selected furniture, layered lighting, and decorative accessories complete the scheme, resulting in a stylish and practical space for both work and relaxation.

The Concept

The Concept

The Concept

The concept for this study was inspired by boutique hotel interiors, creating a space that feels both elegant and comfortable. A rich palette of warm caramel, brass, and muted blue-green tones was used to evoke a sense of sophistication, while natural textures and organic forms bring warmth and balance to the scheme. The design combines practical workspace requirements with luxurious residential styling, resulting in a refined retreat for focused work, reading, and relaxation.

Design principles

Storage Solution

Integrated shelving and concealed storage help maintain a clutter-free environment while keeping everyday essentials easily accessible.

Flow

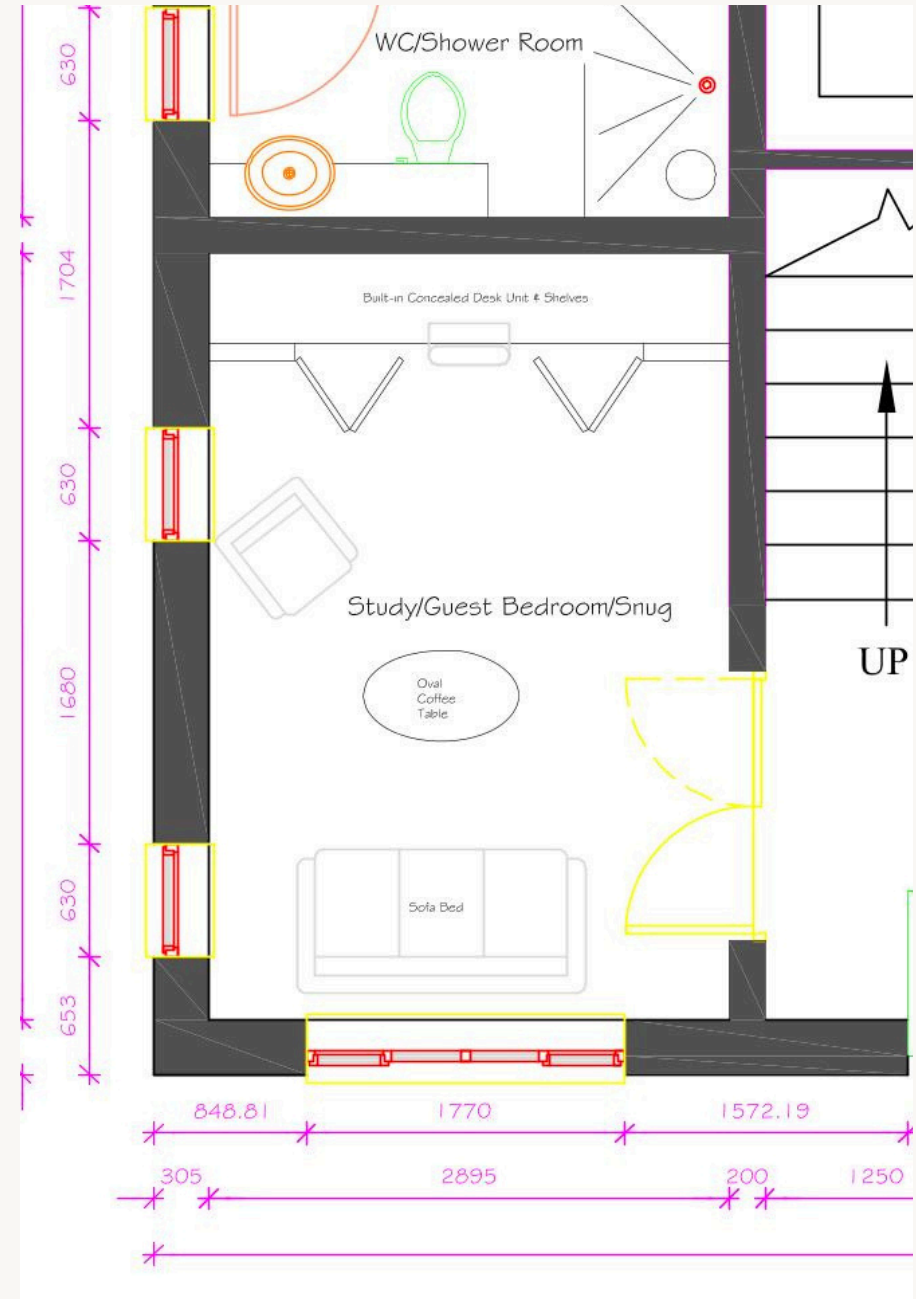

The room has been planned with clear circulation routes, allowing comfortable movement between the workspace, seating area, and adjoining shower room.

Boutique Styling

A curated mix of textures, finishes, and decorative accessories gives the room a sophisticated, hotel-inspired aesthetic that feels both elegant and welcoming.

Floor plan

The layout of this multi-purpose room was designed to maximise functionality within a compact footprint, allowing it to serve as a study, guest bedroom, and relaxing snug. A built-in desk and shelving unit are positioned along the far wall to create a dedicated workspace, while the centrally placed seating area provides a comfortable setting for reading or informal meetings. The sofa bed beneath the window offers flexibility for overnight guests without compromising the room's everyday use. Design elements such as bespoke joinery, layered lighting, and a warm, sophisticated material palette help define each zone while maintaining a cohesive and inviting atmosphere throughout the space.
